Commercial Property

If you are buying, selling, or leasing commercial property, in Dublin, nationwide or internationally, our commercial conveyancing solicitors and legal support team can assist you and your company.

The law relating to commercial property is not only complicated, but it is also wide-ranging in scope. Whatever your commercial conveyancing needs, we have the skill and expertise to guide you through the process, ensuring a smooth and stress-free experience.

To make an initial enquiry, contact us now on 01 7718012 or book a personal meeting.

How can we help you with your commercial property transaction?

We can negotiate, review, manage, and advise on all commercial property matters, including:

- Commercial mortgages
- Leasehold agreements
- Planning and development
- Extension and renewal of leases
- Lease surrender
- Rent reviews
- Landlord and tenant law
- Asset management
- Acquisitions and disposals
- Service charge issues
- Insolvency sales

Our services are not restricted to the sale and purchase of commercial properties. We also deal with any other legal matters relating to your property sale or purchase, such as the negotiation of a commercial lease.

Commercial conveyancing solicitors Dublin

A commercial property transaction typically involves several different parties, such as developers, investors, owners, occupiers, landlords, and tenants. Whatever side of the table you are sitting, you must get the right legal advice tailored to you and your situation. Property is a significant asset, and you need to protect your best interests, irrespective of your circumstances.

At Peter Boyle & Co. Solicitors, we provide the highest level of legal advice in plain and simple English. It does not matter whether you are administering an extensive portfolio of commercial properties, or you are operating from leasehold premises – we are capable of assisting you with your transaction.

Our legal expertise in commercial property transactions

As experienced commercial property solicitors, we appreciate that buying, selling, and leasing commercial property can be stressful and taxing on time and expense. There are various rights and responsibilities that you need to be aware of, along with intricate legal complexities. Any errors or oversights could be costly, putting both your assets and your business.

We ensure that you do not fall foul of any pitfalls. Protecting you and your business is our priority, and will do all in our power to get you the best deal possible. Efficiency and urgency are vital when it comes to challenges such as commercial conveyancing, where time and money are at stake.

Our comprehensive service and legal knowledge meet with your commercial property project no matter how large or complex. We will guide and advise on any legal issues relating to all additional aspects such as planning, insurance, environmental law, and retail law. We deal with everything on your behalf, making the entire process as easy and as profitable as possible for you and your company.
